ERRATA.

In the first note on page 95, the reference should be to Vol. X instead of Vol. 4.

In the account of the Ricketts Token, the reference in note (p. 54.) should be to p. 14 instead of p. 9.

Page 102. In proceedings of the Philadelphia Society, Dr. Brinton's name is erroneously spelled.

MASONIC MEDALS.

We give the following addenda to Masonic Medals in the preceding Volume (XL):—

Page 5. XXVII. It is said only 400 were struck. 14 were struck in gold, 100 in silver, and 400 in bronze.

Page 25. XXIX is struck like a coin.

Page 26. XXXIII was a Medal of the so-called "Ancient" Masons, and English.

Page 27. XXXVI. There have been restrikes of this in various metals.

XXXVII. Twenty-five were struck in brass.

Page 28. XXXIX is silver-plated.

Page 29. XLIII. The translation of the legend on obverse should read "To the founder of the Lodge."

Page 61. LIV is found in bronze also.

Page 77. LXXVIII. Pythagoras Lodge have this in silver.

Page 78. LXXIX. I prefer to translate the legend, It (the Lodge) is distinguished by union, liberality and friendship.

Page 79. LXXXVIII. The Lodge is that of "Sincere and Perfect Union."

Page 80. XCIII. Reverse, instead of 5808, read J. J. B. in exergue. Pythagoras Lodge has this in silver.

XCIV. For tenebrae read TENEBRAS.

Page 81. XCVI. Mr. Carson, who has one in bronze, says instead of a level on the reverse, there is a plumb and rule.

C is also struck in gold and silver.

Page 82. CI. "No. 37," should be No. 36.

CII. Size is 32, not 48.

CV is of white metal, silver-plated.

IN THE PRESENT VOLUME.

Page 4. CXIX is struck in copper.

CXXII. This Medal is found in silver, and there are two different dies of the obverse, slightly varying.

Page 5. CXXIII is of bronze.

Page 9. CXLVII is found also in bronze.

CXLVIII is size 16.

Page 10. CLIII. An impression of this Medal now in my collection, confirms the supposition of the note: the Legend should read ST. VT. DE PAUL and in exergue, E. before DVBOVR. The size is 21.

CLIV. After PARIS, insert "5820 in two lines,"

Page 11. CLX. After M in legend of reverse insert D. L. so it will read "M. D. L. D. L."

Page 12. CLXVII is also in bronze.

Page 13. CLXIX and CLXX are also in silver.

Page 30. CLXXX is in silver.

CLXXXVII was struck by the "Loge Amis Vrais de l'Union."

Page 61. CCV was struck in bronze.

CCVII was by the same Lodge as CLXXXVII, now united with another, and adding "et des Progres" to its title.

CCVIII is also in silver.

Page 69. CCXXXIX. An impression of this Medal now in my collection, enables me to correct the description: for ladder read "a flight of steps:" the name of II T-R-S-T-A (? Tirshatha, the word used in Nehemiah for Governor, rather than Terseta, suggested in the note, from Tresor) is DORLAN, not DORBAN, and of III T-R-S-T-A is DUBIN, not DURIN, as given by Merzdorf.

Page 93. CCLXI. An examination of the Medals in Hon. George H. Farrier's collection, kindly loaned me through Mr. Proskey, enables me to correct the description of this and the next as follows:—The colors of the quarters of the shield on the reverse are thus indicated: 1 and 4, gules; 2, or; 3, azure. In very small letters on the left of the jewel at the bottom is W. J. TAYLOR, and on the right, LONDON. The garter (which is azure) around the shield, shows the missing letters (T QUI MA) and that, not the shield, is surmounted by the coronet.

CCLXII. Obverse, the jewel of Prince William is a star of five points. The O after P in the legend should be omitted. Rev. The altar in left tablet has no steps. In the right tablet a flaming sword lies on the second step. Before "In exergue, &c.," insert: Over the coronet and oval tablets is an angel flying to left, and blowing a trumpet which he holds in his right hand; a palm branch is in his left. There are no points between the letters of the date. In the legend, for ET TENEBRAE EAM read SED TENEBRAE EAM. At the bottom for ET read &.
